Pursuant to a congressional request, GAO reviewed the Army's plan to establish a U. S. Army Armament Development Center and Armament Logistics command, focusing on the: (1) annual recurring cost reductions and the one-time costs; (2) community impact data; and (3) environmental impact assessments in the Army's justification study for realignment. GAO noted that: (1) the Army estimated that the annual operating costs would decrease by about 42 million after completion of the realignment; (2) GAO, however, determined that the annual operating costs would decrease by about 31.2 million as a result of the realignment and by about 6.3 million because of workload reductions not related to the realignment; (3) the Army estimated that the one-time costs for the realignment would be about 86 million; (4) the cost estimates were based on relocating employees and equipment, altering existing facilities, and constructing new facilities; (5) since the study, the Army has changed several construction projects and, as a result, its latest estimate for total one-time costs is about 75 million; (6) the Army estimated that the realignment, including the...
