Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Cromwell on Foreign Affairs: Together With Four Essays on International Matters The Times newspaper of Feb. 18th, 1901, contained an article by its Cologne correspondent in which the writer observed, The German hatred of England has never been greater than it is to-day. Now in connection with this statement the author of these essays would make two observations. The first is that the one faculty which in his judgment is more essential than all others to anyone who wishes to apprehend the truth about international matters consists in being able to look at and to judge of facts in the mass as opposed to details and in preventing the judgment from being misled by those lesser details which are constantly being drawn like red herrings across the trail which is followed by the seeker after truth in international affairs. What are the most salient facts in the international politics of the world at the beginning of this century? The author would reply, The rivalry for Empire between England, Germany and Russia. Now of these three...
