William.--The best educated man, the really useful man, is the thoroughly developed man in his physical as well as in his intellectual nature. Your plan would soon make you like some sickly indoor plant that has not had enough air and sunshine, and does not amount to much. Kate.--You need not stop learning because you give up your books. Nature s book is open before you. In that you may study and learn all you wish. Johnny.--Do you really think I could learn without my books, and have a good time, too? Kate.--Why, certainly. The woods and fields are full of beautiful lessons, and it is quite as well for us to form habits of observation and search out some things for ourselves, as to learn everything from books. Johnny.--O, then I will join your happy party. I was feeling very sad and lonely studying here alone, anyway, and I m sure I should enjoy the flowers and birds and woods and streams as much as any of you. All.--Then we will all say good-bye to school, and away to enjoy vacation all we can. All sing, Goodbye to School. Tune: Blue Bells of Scotland. Good-bye, O good-bye to our happy school so dear! Good-bye, O good-bye to our happy schcol so dear! We loved its hours of study And songs of merry cheer, And we ll sing a fond farewell,...
